

A WORD FROM THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Dear Readers,

With great satisfaction, I have the honor of informing You that the Thomson Reuters has notified us that our journal, Nuclear Technology & Radiation Protection, has been included into the Thomson Scientific Citation Index List for 2010 and in Journal Citation Reports – Science Edition, with an impact factor of 0.706. In the Nuclear Science and Technology field comprised of 34 journals, ours has positioned itself at the 21st place. Not bad for a mere novice!

Three years ago, when our journal was included in the ISI Web of Knowledge and the Science Citation Index Expanded, we focused our efforts on reaching the standards of internationally recognized journals – the models we aspire to – by increasing the number of issues per volume, raising the quality of reviews and accelerating the pace of the publication of papers submitted. With the help of our distinguished Advisory Editorial board, each and every member of the Editorial Board will continue to pursue the goals we have set for ourselves with as much enthusiasm as up to now.

As for the novelties we plan to implement in the next calendar year concerning the number of issues, efficiency of our editorial staff and the improvement of our web site – stay tuned! We promise to inform You of all that in December when our next issue is due to be published.

Yours truly,

Rodoljub Simović